Legitimate co-operation can be defined as any constructive educational and intellectual practice that aims to facilitate optimal learning outcomes through interaction between students. Typical examples of these practices may include:

- the researching and writing of joint projects/written works/tutorial papers;
- discussion of general themes and concepts;
- interpretation of assessment criteria;
- informal study/discussion groups;
- strengthening and development of academic writing skills through peer assistance.

Legitimate co-operation is based on the principle that producing the work remains the independent responsibility of the student (or group of students where a joint project is undertaken), while recognising the educational value of interaction between students.
